

MOKENA READY
WITH 1955
VEHICLE TAGS

The Mokena Village board met Tuesday evening in a rather uneventful session.

It was announced that the vehicle stickers have arrived at the office of clerk Alvin Sorenson. A $2 discount will be allowed for purchase made by Feb. 28. After this time, the regular price of $5 will be charged.

Information was presented on the Kohlwood Estates subdivision on LaPorte road. This subdivision was the property of the late Joe Kohl. His son, Richard, has had the property surveyed for a subdivision, and presented information concerning it to the village board for approval for the county zoning board.

The Kohl property is outside the village limits, but the law states that subdividers must get an approval from the village board if the subdivision is within a mile and a half of the village limits. The Kohl property is a little over a mile from the village limits.

Some of the restrictions are, only one single dwelling and one garage can be erected on one lot. A single story house must cover 1100 square feet. The lots are to be 60 ft. by 110 ft., and 100 ft. by 110 ft. Residents will not be permitted to raise birds, chinchillas, dogs, cats, or any other animal or bird. The property will be restricted to members of the Caucasian race.

Mayor Scarth will soon see a representative of the Rock Island railroad in regard to extending the train platform. When a long train stops at Mokena, passengers alighting east of the present platform are compelled to make a very big step - or jump - to the cinders, which is quite dangerous. It is desired to have the Rock Island extend its present platform quite a distance to the east, to remove this hazard.

It was unanimously voted at the meeting that the village improve Division Street - between the Rock Island tracks and Front st. This improvement will start at once. The street will be filled with a gravel mixture so it will be ready for the winter months and be ready in the spring for a top coating. New sidewalks will be laid at that time.

The board discussed the reliability of passing an ordinance requiring a contractor doing work on village streets or property to post a bond. Village attorney, Ray Hoolihan, was instructed to prepare such an ordinance for consideration at the next meeting.

YULE TREE CATCHES FIRE;
IGNITES HOME

A Christmas tree blaze destroyed the first floor of the William Martin home on Maple road north of New Lenox last Thursday morning. The four small children of the family were playing around the Christmas tree, when suddenly a bubble light exploded, igniting the tree. The flames and smoke spread throughout the house so fast it was all Mrs. Martin could do to get the children out of the house. Mr. Martin was at work at the time.

Fortunately, the Royal Corps, who live across the street, saw the flames, and called the New Lenox Fire department. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Knierim, passing motorists, also noticed the flames and stopped and helped carry water from the Corp residence. Mr. Corp used his small fire extinguisher. The fire department soon put out the fire saving the home, but the first floor and furnishings were badly damaged. The second floor was damaged from the smoke.

W. A. Smith Files Suit Against Colcord Estate

W. A. Smith, who, since 1938, has lived on the east side of the Wabash tracks in Alpine, and east of the Colcord property, sued the late C. F. Colcord for plowing up survey stakes set by Mr. Smith on Mr. Smith's property, which had been laid out in lots. That trial was held in November, 1953, in the office of Justice of the Peace George Flondor, in Orland Park, whose decision, according to Mr. Smith, was that Mr. Colcord should replace the stakes.

Mr. Colcord appealed the decision to Judge Wm. J. Tuohy, of the circuit court of Cook county, and the hearing was to have come up September 29, 1954. However, the hearing was postponed to Nov. 29, when it was held. Judge Tuohy upheld the decision as given by Judge Flondor, Mr. Smith states.

Mr. Colcord having died in the meantime, there was no one on the defendant's side, so Mr. Smith has filed his claim against the Colcord estate with Charles Fleck, public administrator, in Chicago.

DOG BITES
NEWSBOY

Wayne Eggert, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eggert, of Mokena, delivers the Joliet Herald-News in his neighborhood. While delivering the paper Sunday, Dec. 19, to the home of Clarence Miller, the Miller's large black collie dog, who is about a year old, ran up to him and bit him in the left leg above the knee, drawing blood, and then nipped the boy on his arm, which was protected by a heavy jacket.

Wayne's father, who usually accompanies his son on Sundays and helps him deliver the papers was on the other side of the road when this happened. He heard and saw what was going on, and ran over to his son and fought the dog off. At this point Mr. Miller came out and called the dog into the house. He had not known that his dog had bit anybody, thinking he was only playing. The dog knew Wayne, and Wayne is not a boy who is inclined to tease or aggravate a dog.

Upon arriving home, they took Wayne to Dr. J. Buckley, at Frankfort, who found it necessary to give two shots. They returned to the Millers and learned that the dog had rabies shots last June.

The incident was reported to the authorities, who advised the Millers to keep the dog tied up or on leash. Unless this is done Wayne refuses to deliver papers there any more.

Many Birds Come To 'Waterhole' In McGinnes Slough

By Charles A. Singler

Where McGinnes Slough touches closely upon U.S. 45, an interesting thing is happening these days. At this point, where the highway comes close to the water's edge, and where, during the spring, summer and autumn scores of fishermen gather from dawn to dusk to catch the small fish that may or may not be biting, we can observe an interesting sight if we will but drive past slowly enough to observe it.

It seems that at the north end of the slough there is a crack in the ice, evidently caused by a current that traverses it, and along this crack the water does not freeze. One day, several weeks ago, when there was a thin skin of ice all over the slough, the water seemed to be rippling slightly along this crack, which winds an uncertain way towards the west. On this particular morning there were congregated along this break in the ice hundreds of birds of the larger sizes - crows, seagulls, and believe it or not, a half a dozen herons. It rather reminded me of those water holes in the elephant country they so often write about, where all sorts of ferocious beasts gather under the shelter of amnesty, and even the gentle Thompson's gazelle is immune from molestation.

Of late the ice on the slough has thickened, almost cementing the winding crack that oozes a bit of water for bird drinking purposes, but it is still there. And so are the crows, quiet for now and as much as a caw out of these gabby birds that spend so much time bickering in the cornfields and in the oak trees. A goodly number of seagulls are always on hand, too, and some I could not identify at a distance.

One day while driving past, I got a glimpse of a big brownish bird sitting on the topmost branch of a low tree overlooking the slough. The branch was bending and swaying under his weight. Whether he was a chicken-hawk or owl I could not tell, but I did not dare look back.

Each time as I pass this place, blackened with its thirsty crows, I think, "What a spot for a crow-shoot." But take it easy; this happens to be a wildlife sanctuary.

STOWAWAY CAT
EXCITEMENT

The Warren Hares, who live on Hawthorne street in New Lenox, have a large, beautiful, white cat that went on the prowl New Year's night, like a lot of people. In some way or other, that only a cat would know, this tabby got into the Hares' neighbor's car, somewhere under the hood completely in the dark as to their stowaway, the neighbors drove off to see Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller in the night.

When the car came to a stop the cat jumped from underneath it. It was scared to death and streaked up a tree in the Archie Corp yard across the street from the Millers, as fast as any squirrel ever made it.

The cat was recognized at once as belonging to the Hares, and every effort was made to induce it to come down out of the tree, but puss could not see it that way. That auto ride had scared eight of her nine lives out of her, and anyway, this was New Year's night.

Sometime during the night, the cat disappeared, and no trace could be found of her. The search was renewed Sunday, and continued all day. Finally, at 10 o'clock Sunday night, they found poor pussycat all huddled up in the front porch of the David Bruns home, near the Millers.

The Hares got their cat back, the cat is none the worse for her auto ride and night out, and everybody is happy.

Two Rollover Auto Accidents Occur On Route 30 and Route 45, Near Frankfort*Icy Pavement Causes Crash At
193rd and Wolf Road

George Haehnlein and Robert Sandro, both of Mokena were involved in an automobile accident at 193rd st., and Wolf road, Mokena, Friday, Dec. 31, at 5:30 p.m.

According to Police Officer Vernon Bormet, Mr. Haehnlein had been driving his car with his family. His wife, Eleanor, and daughter, Deborah, were in the car, and they picked up their neighbor, Mrs. Anna Waitkiss and her daughter, Mary Ann, in Mokena, and took them home.

Mr. Haehnlein slowed down for Waitkiss drive at 193rd and Wolf road, to enter their yard, and as he was about to make a right hand turn into the drive he noticed a car coming from behind, approaching too fast to stop.

According to Officer Bormet the driver of this car, Robert Landro, of Mokena, tried to pull to the right of the Haehnlein car to avoid a crash, but because of the slippery condition of the road was unable to pull over or to stop. The Landro car scraped along the side of the Haehnlein car, doing considerable damage to both cars.

The door of the Landro car flew open, but Landro was not thrown out because he had a firm grip on the wheel. He was alone in his car and was not injured. Both cars were badly damaged and put out of commission. They were towed to the Cooper and Hostert garage in Mokena.

Landro lives with his parents at 183rd and 93rd ave., in Mokena. He was planning to start work at a motor company in Chicago Monday.

Mrs. Waitkiss complained of a stiff neck and her arm and shoulder hurt, but she did not think it necessary to see a doctor at the time.

Post Office To Drop 'Junk Mail'
System March 31

City and town deliveries of "junk mail" will be discontinued after March 31, 1955, according to an announcement of Postmaster General Summerfield. Deliveries of this kind were established experimentally about 15 months ago, and were called by the post office "simplified address mail." The system allowed distribution on selected routes of advertising matter addressed to "householder," "patron" or "boxholder", without definite street address.

This system is handled at a third-class rate of one half cents per piece, and applies only to city and village delivery routes. Such mail will still be handled on rural routes.

The experiment had previously been tried by the Democratic administration. Numerous protests were received to the effect that it was clogging the postal system.

Icy highways since the sleet storm of Dec. 29 have made driving hazardous until the "January thaw" which set in with the first day of the year. There were many minor accidents in this area caused by skidding, but some of them were much more serious.

Sunday night, about 11:45, Darwin R. Delentick, 35, of 304 Buchanan St., Gary, struck a telephone pole at the Amos Bruns barber shop corner on Route 30, New Lenox, while driving west. A post holding up the Episcopal church bulletin board was struck at the same time, and snapped off. The telephone pole was broken off about six or seven feet from the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruns, who were sitting in their home close by, heard the crash and ran out. They found the driver in the back seat, evidently having been thrown there from the impact. The Bruns called the state police. The deputies who answered the call were Charles Hahn and Glenn Bitterman. They took Delentick to Silver Cross hospital, where x-rays showed he had sustained an injury to his right leg. No charges were placed against him.

Two persons were injured in an auto accident on route 30, about a mile west of route 45, near Frankfort, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 30. The accident which occurred at a sharp curve, was due to icy roads.

Injured were Douglas Weiding, 37, of Bloomington, who was driving, and his daughter, Sandra, 11. Both were taken to Silver Cross hospital where it was learned that Mr. Weiding had sustained injuries to the left ankle and ribs. X-rays of neck and spine were taken of the daughter.

Riding in the car also when it rolled into the ditch and overturned were Weiding's wife, Selma, 33, and a son, Douglas, Jr., 13, both of whom escaped injury.

A second rollover accident occurred on route 45 the same day, about five miles south of Frankfort. In this accident the driver, Lyman Arben, 24, of St. Petersburg, Fla., a student at the University of Illinois in Urbana escaped injury. Arben was driving north on the highway when he struck an icy patch and turned over. In his case, as in the other, it was a job for the tow truck.

A two-car accident occurred on route 30 at the Lincoln-Way high school Saturday afternoon. In this accident Raymond De La Rosa, 17, of Chicago Heights, was critically injured. He was taken to Silver Cross hospital.

DeLa Rosa was thrown from the car and pinned beneath it when it turned over. The driver, Eduardo Platta, 26, of Chicago Heights, suffered abrasions on the knee and was treated for bruises.

According to State Police Sgt. Robert Georgantas, Platta, who was traveling east on Route 30, failed to negotiate a curve and crossed over into the westbound lane, sideswiping a car being driven by Gerald J. Haggerty, Joliet. Platta's car continued for about 300 feet along the highway, and then overturned, according to the police. He was issued a ticket for traveling in the wrong lane.

Keep Arresting Overload Trucks Court Advises

All Illinois state police can do about truckers who consistently overload their trucks is to keep arresting them, according to the U. S. Supreme Court. In a test of the state statute which barred use of Illinois highways to consistent offenders, the highest authority of the land told the state it was interfering with interstate commerce. The regulation and control of interstate commerce, it has been well established, is an absolute power of the federal government.

As a part of its combination licensing and weighing program, the State had endeavored to deny the use of Illinois highways to those truckers who regularly and consistently carried loads over the legal limit or not distributed properly within the truck. "You can fine them," the Supreme court said, in essence, "but you can't keep them off the highways."

BABSON SAYS—

Copyright, 1954, Publishers
Financial Bureau, Inc.

There are several reasons for the present epidemic of mergers. In some cases, taxes are the chief consideration; in other cases they are to reduce costs; and often the cause is to secure additional financing.

But one very potent cause is to be able to afford more advertising, which - in this very competitive era - is the life of trade. To understand what I mean, let me remind readers that a full-page advertisement of television sets in this or any other newspaper would be the same price to the great Radio Corporation of America as to some new small company which might be manufacturing a better TV set. In the case of a 2-page color spread in Life magazine the price would be approximately $50,000 for one week! This is a drop in the bucket to R.C.A., but it is a cost which small companies cannot meet.

This is a problem not only to the small company, but also to the medium-sized company with several products to advertise. Successful advertising depends upon continuous advertising.

With one product this is far more practical, more efficient, and much less expensive. Let me illustrate by referring to two good but competitive candy products.

The Life Savers Corporation has practically only one product, with which every reader is acquainted and for which the company appropriates annually about $1,000,000 for advertising.

The New England Confectionery Company (trade name Necco) has 20 different products. This means that if Necco should appropriate $1,000,000 for advertising, this would need to be divided by 20 products. No one of the 20 products might get enough advertising to enable it to be profitable.

In fact, by one law of advertising, each product would get only 1-20th of the result instead of 1-20th. This can be remedied only by a reduction in the number of items, or by a consolidation with other candy manufacturers.

Of course, Life Savers would not consider such a consolidation. A merger would have to be with a candy company having similar competitive difficulties but duplicate manufacturing facilities. Then, two competitive products could be marketed under a joint name - without any loss of good will. The machines which were the most efficient would be used for manufacturing the products, working on two or three shifts of labor. Operating expenses would be greatly reduced, while each product would get double the present advertising allotment.

I am continually asked why the stocks of some companies - lake General Electric, for instance - sell so much higher than stocks of some smaller electric companies which are not well known but may perhaps make a better product. I do not know all the answers to this question, but this I do know: The price of the stock of almost all companies (Hershey is an exception) parallels closely the amount spent upon advertising.

Not only do large advertising appropriations create more business and more profits, but investors like to buy the stocks of companies which they see advertising each week. This not only applies to the prosperity of individual companies, but also to the prosperity of the nation as a whole. When national advertising falls off, business falls off and unemployment increases.

I forecast that the day may come when the government will subsidize advertising during a business depression.

Not only will we see many more mergers amongst manufacturing concerns, but the epidemic will spread to retail stores. Drive down the business street of any city and - with a critical eye - notice the vast number of small retailers. Eighty per cent are barely making a living. When depression comes, the mortality amongst retailers could be great.

Therefore, I urge retailers to consider mergers. This especially applies to shops which carry the same items and are near one another. Retailers who have no free parking space nearby will be the first to merge. Bankers reading this column could be very helpful in bringing these needed mergers about. One closing thought: Read your Bible - Proverbs, Chapter 16, Verse 18. This gives the cause of most business failures.

AREA WATER PLAN STIRS DISCUSSION

A comprehensive plan for the solution of the water problems of the Chicago metropolitan area is being closely studied by residents of the area involved.

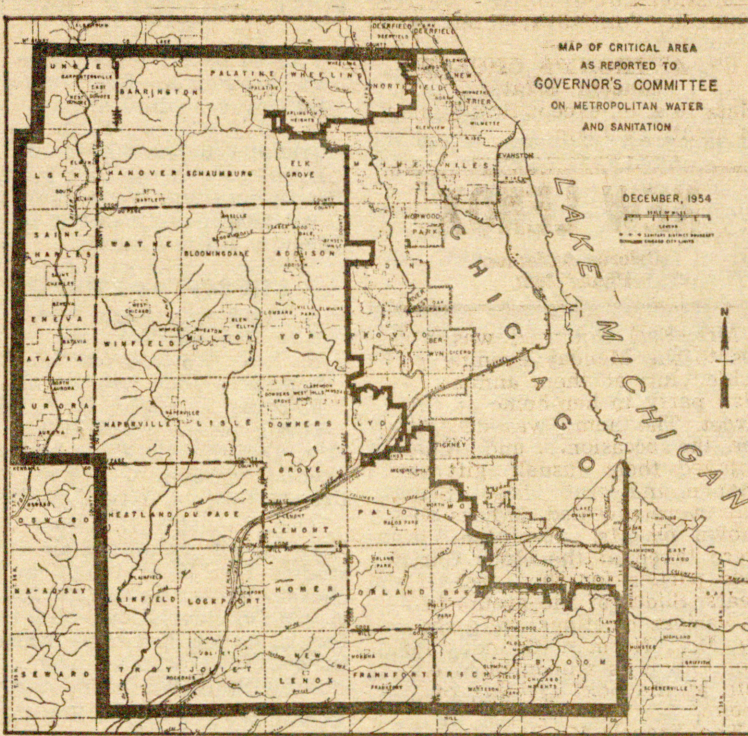

As proposed by the Governor's Committee on Metropolitan Water and Sanitation and vigorously supported by Gov. William G. Stratton, the problems of water supply, storm drainage, waste disposal, and rapid development of the Cal-Sag Channel and port facilities could best be met on an area-wide basis by the establishment of a governmental service agency. This agency would function in all of Cook and DuPage counties and in the western part of Kane County and the northern part of Will County.

The Committee recommendations were:

"1. The establishment of such a single governmental service authority, to coordinate and direct a united approach to these problems in the above metropolitan area.

"2. The acquisition of existing municipal utilities by said service authority be accomplished on a voluntary basis through negotiation between the service authority and the various communities.

"3. The Sanitary District of Chicago is a governmental agency which presently serves an area including 75 municipalities and renders services in the fields of drainage, sanitation and navigation and it could well be used as a base for the establishment of the governmental service authority herein above referred to."

Both Gov. Stratton and Anthony Olis, Chairman of the Governor's Committee and President of the Sanitary District, stressed the voluntary nature of the plan in talks before a group of 343 civic and industrial leaders at the Union League Club in Chicago.

"It should not be contemplated that the acquiring of existing municipal utilities be done by compulsion or condemnation," Olis said, "but rather on a voluntary basis for the mutual benefit of the municipality and the regional area."

Olis recalled the $25,000,000 damage in the area during the flood last October, the inadequacies of sewage treatment facilities in certain areas, the need for Lake Michigan water in many communities, and the urgency of the need for improving the Cal-Sag and building an adequate port.

Olis said every effort will be made to encourage full and open discussion of the proposal, its scope and its ramifications. He suggested that those interested write him for information at 910 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago 5, Illinois.

Grazing Top Farm Woodland Problem

Farm woodlands in Illinois are hard to manage right because more than half of them are being grazed.

Ralph Lorenz, forester at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says timber production and grazing do not mix. The fact that so many farm woodlands are being grazed presents the state's foresters with their top problem.

About one-tenth of Illinois is covered with forest, says Lorenz. And about 90 per cent of this forest is classed as farm woodland.

Grazed woodlands are lazy acres on the farm, the forester points out. They are not producing their share of the farm income either from timber alone or as improved pasture. You can't do both at the same time, of woodland for improved pasture. In that case, Lorenz believes that you would be far better off to fence the area and let the trees produce a profitable crop that keeps replacing itself.

The world's oldest corn experiment fields are the Morrow Plots at the University of Illinois, continuously cultivated since 1776.

Expansion Is Watchword At National Tea

By H. V. McNamara, President National Tea Co.

We at National look with a good deal of confidence to continued prosperity and further improvement in economic conditions in 1955.

Our plans reflect that confidence. For instance, we now have under lease, for opening in 1955, 75 new supermarkets in the 10-state area in which we operate. In addition, new locations now being considered will probably bring the figure to around 85 new stores. This represents an investment, by ourselves and the lessors who will buy the property and build the new stores for us, of between 15 and 20 million dollars.

National is also considering acquisitions in various parts of its territory so as to expand further within the area we now serve: from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada, and from the Dakotas on the west to Michigan and Indiana on the east. Included in our long-term plans are new warehouses in Chicago and in the "Quad-City" area on the Illinois-Iowa border.

Naturally with such plans, we must have extreme faith in the future, and particularly the prospects for 1955.

We are now the fifth largest chain in the United States with a sales volume in 1954 of approximately $520 million. At our present rate of expansion, we look for sales of $575 million or more next year.

Our company's organizational and personnel development program is keeping pace with physical expansion plans on three levels:

1. Our official family has been developed and increased in the past few years and more and more top-level decisions are being made by our advisory committee which operates as a discussion group to decide operating procedure.

2. Establishment of capable key personnel in all the important operating and merchandising positions with capable young people understanding these men to take over these or like positions in our present branches or those acquired in our expansion program.

3. Development of a large group of younger people in stores, offices, and warehouses on whom we draw, as they get experience on jobs in their field, to fill key positions as the need arises.

Our college training program, as well as on-the-job training, has been instituted to prepare the younger generation in our company to take over management and operation in years to come.

While the growth and expansion of National Tea Co. is being accomplished at a rate far in excess of the industry average, each forward step is made only after deliberation and discussion, and is based on sound and profitable business judgement. Meantime, profits must be maintained or improved. Therefore, expansion is being carefully planned to keep pace with earnings and to insure that our business "lives within its means."

Much of National's gains in the past, and our projected gains of the future, has and will be due to: (1) Improvements in stores and facilities, (2) Aggressive merchandising and advertising, (3) Intelligent management, (4) Development of personnel.

These, of course, couldn't have been possible without another, and possibly the biggest, factor: The ability of the American consumer to live better, eat more, and enjoy a higher standard of living as a result of vastly improved economic conditions in America.

Architectural engineering was first recognized as a college subject at the University of Illinois, where the pioneering course started in 1890.

Coal And The Atom
An information bulletin issued by the Appalachian Coals, Inc., of Ohio states: "The splitting of the atom with all the attendant publicity incident to this great scientific achievement has naturally given the conventional fuel industries—including coal—a case of the 'jitters' regarding the future. It is now apparent that these fears are largely unfounded. The problem, instead, will be to develop enough energy from all possible sources to meet the tremendous demand of the future."

That view is based on the findings publicized at a meeting in New York, in which more than a thousand engineers, scientists, industrialists, educators and others discussed every phase of nuclear energy and its future. It was generally agreed the development of reliable and economical commercial power reactors will extend over a long period—as in the case of any great new development, the scientists are far ahead of the engineers who must apply the scientific principles to concrete practical installations. It was also agreed that the demand for all fuels will be tremendous. As one oil company expert put it, "The long range problem is not what fuel is going to be crowded out but what can come along to help carry the rapidly growing load."

So far as coal is concerned, the Ohio company's bulletin put the situation in these words: "In a new atmosphere of understanding, the coal industry can now attack its important problems with vigor, all of which are much more serious than the threat of atomic energy."

More Food For Less Money
Last September the United States Consumer Price Index, which is designed to measure the cost of goods and services bought by average families—dropped to its lowest point since April. The primary reason for this was a decline in the overall cost of foods.

Many of the most desirable foods now cost less than in recent months, and in some cases the cuts have been substantial. Meat is one of the outstanding examples. According to an American Meat Institute announcement, issued as October ended, Highest net earnings in history provided the funds for this distribution, according to John Bardwick, president of the Association. Total earnings are estimated at $315,436.47, of which a total of $223,436.47 was paid in the form of dividends, including the June 30 payment. The balance of $92,000.00 will be carried to Reserves and Surplus, building those accounts to a new record total estimated at $728,000.00, which is compared to $636,563.81 a year ago.

The net increase of savings was devoted mainly to increasing the mortgage loan accounts which are estimated at $9,900,000.00 at the year end, compared to $8,659,939.80 at Dec. 31, 1953, or a gain of over a million and a quarter dollars. In addition, holdings of U.S. Government bonds were increased to $1,111,768.63, compared with the year ago figures of $829,676.64, a gain of over $275,000.00.

"The Association thus continues its record of consistent growth which has characterized it since its founding," said President Bardwick. "I crossed the ten million mark in assets in Dec. of 1953 and the year end figures will show somewhere in the neighborhood of $11,700,000.00, a gain of $1,700,000.00 during the year. The gain reflects the continued determination of the average American family to save for its own independence and to own a home of its own, which are the twin objectives of the Association."

Public Service Co. Announces Bargain Priced Wiring

More than 600,000 homes in Chicago and northern Illinois with outmoded two-wire electrical service will be offered special inducements during 1955 to install modern 3-wire, 240-volt service, it is announced by Commonwealth Edison Company and its Public Service Company Division.

The utility, by newspaper advertising, by television and radio and by direct customer approach will encourage those living in one, two, or three family dwellings to install wiring capacity necessary to handle today's growing list of electrical appliances.

Effective January 1, the company is arranging for "bargain priced" wiring by installing all of the outside equipment, including the necessary service entrance. The latter is ordinarily paid by the customer. It is estimated that this will result in a saving of $30.00 or more.

Any customer who installs a 240-volt appliance and agrees to install, also, a 100-ampere main switch and the circuit required for the appliance will qualify for the outside wiring concession.

The company will finance the switch and appliance circuit (and additional inside wiring up to $100) with installments payable monthly.

Commonwealth has arranged for local electrical contractors in each community to make the wiring installations at fixed prices for each appliance.

Willis Gale, Chairman of Commonwealth, stated the program has been adopted so that residential customers can get the full benefit of today's electric service. He pointed out that last summer many customers who bought room coolers had to return them because they found that their homes did not have sufficient capacity to handle the appliance.

"We hope to make our service territory the best wired of any comparable area in the country," said Mr. Gale. "We realize we can't do this overnight but we are prepared to carry out a long range program to bring it about."

quickly when hurrying in traffic. (Does it really matter so much that you beat the other car away from the traffic light?) Unnecessarily fast starts make your car a real gas-eater.

TAKE IT EASY

Shift from lower gears as soon as possible, because traveling in low gears at high speeds consumes gas. Stay in low long enough to get smoothly under way, but don't keep the car in low beyond 15 m.p.h. Shift to second at 15 m.p.h. and into high at 20 m.p.h. Don't accelerate too heavily, remember. Avoid repeated accelerating and braking. In the city, where accelerating and braking is so frequent, gas consumption can still be cut by using "planned driving," that is, using a safe steady speed. It's just a matter of timing—looking ahead as you drive, judging the speed of the traffic flow, and gauging the approximate setting of the traffic lights. If you do a good job of timing, plenty of extra stops and starts can be avoided. These tests we mentioned show that planned driving in traffic can save you one gallon out of every three. Those are the main things to remember. The biggest point made in these tests seems to be this: that of all the factors that influence how much gas your car uses, one of the most important is the driver.

(Fashion writer, artist and TV personality, Miss Chapman is a native of Detroit, and has spent the last several years working with automobile stylists, designers and engineers at Chrysler Corporation.)

WOMEN AND WHEELS

Low Speed Saves Gas

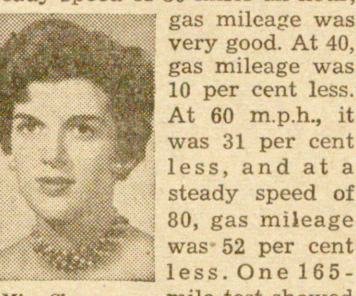

By Mary Lou Chapman

We don't know who handles the finances in your family, but if your husband has been unhappy about car gasoline bills lately, here are tips the whole family can use while driving. You might try them for one month and see if that bill doesn't shrink.

30 M.P.H. GOOD

Keep your speed moderate, both on the highway and in the city. Recent tests showed that at a steady speed of 30 miles an hour, gas mileage was very good. At 40, gas mileage was 10 per cent less. At 60 m.p.h., it was 31 per cent less, and at a steady speed of 80, gas mileage was 52 per cent less. One 165-mile test showed that by driving around 50 instead of 70 on the open highway, you can save one gallon or more out of every four.

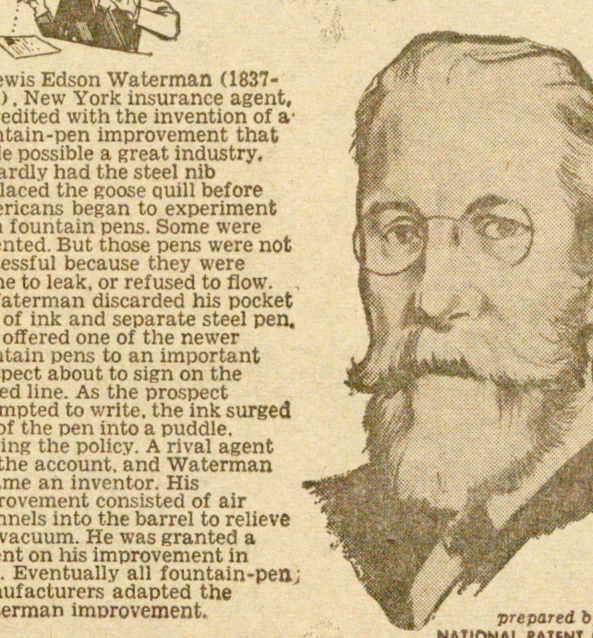

Avoid "jet-propelled" starts. It was found that 65 per cent of all drivers accelerated much too

To Improve Program For Citizenship

A grant of $80,000 for the Emil Schwarzhaupt Foundation to the National 4-H Club Foundation, Washington, D.C., will finance a project for improving the 4-H citizenship program.

E. I. Pilchard, Illinois state leader of agricultural 4-H Clubs, says that the grant is for a three-year period starting on Jan. 1, 1955.

Purpose of the new program, according to Pilchard, will be to increase the contribution of 4-H Club work in the development of citizens. The two phases of the project will be (1) developing an improved program of citizenship activities and experiences for 4-H Club members and (2) providing improved program materials and projects for 4-H extension workers in each state, as well as in-service training in citizenship education.

The project will be centered around the needs of the local 4-H Club, the individual club member and the volunteer local club leader, as well as the county extension worker. Their cooperation and participation will be an integral part of the citizenship program.

Dr. Glenn C. Dildine of the 4-H Foundation staff will carry out the initial steps and develop long-range plans for the project during the first six months. In this time he will (1) inventory and evaluate the citizenship activities of the current 4-H Club program, (2) inventory and evaluate the citizenship programs of other youth organizations and (3) use the research material that he has developed in the Foundation's research and training project on developmental needs and human relations.

The National 4-H Club Foundation is a non-profit, non-government educational organization established in 1948 to help the Extension Service and the 4-H program help boys and girls prepare themselves for happy and well-adjusted living.

PROTESTANT CHURCHES JOIN CRUSADE

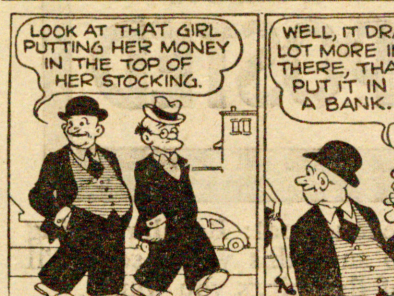

Four thousand Protestant churches in Illinois will co-operate in a nation-wide church attendance crusade on 15 Sundays from January 2 to Easter Sunday April 10.

Announcement of plans was made this week by Rev. Paul Grimes, Methodist minister and pastor of West Ridge Community church, Chicago. Mr. Grimes is state chairman.

Governor William G. Stratton has issued a proclamation requesting observance of the campaign period. He asserts that "church attendance and united worship of God strengthen the moral and spiritual foundations of our state and nation."

Last year the campaign was primarily a Methodist enterprise. This year it has been adopted by the Illinois Church Council and the Church Federation of Greater Chicago. Rev. John W. Harms, executive vice president will be in charge.

Mr. Grimes states that the attendance crusade has been adopted by state councils of churches in Wisconsin and Ohio as well as in Illinois. Last year 23,000 of the 40,000 Methodist churches in the United States took part in the effort. They reported an average increase in church attendance for the period of 30 per cent.

New Wool Program To Be Used In 1955

According to L. H. Simerl, of the department of agricultural economics, a new kind of price program for wool goes into effect in 1955. Under the new program farmers will get more money for producing wool, but the users of wool will get it at lower costs.

Congress set up the new scheme last summer when it passed the National Wool Act of 1954. The stated goal of the act is to increase both the production and the use of wool. Higher returns to producers are provided to boost production. Lower prices to manufacturers are intended to increase the use of wool.

How can farmers get more money for producing wool while manufacturers get wool at lower prices? These seemingly contradictory results will be achieved by dropping the price support for wool and using direct payments to wool growers to boost their income.

Here are the differences between the old wool program and the new one:

In 1954 the average price of wool was supported at 90 per cent of parity, which was 53 cents a pound. This support program was carried out by loans to farmers much like the price support loans on corn and wheat.

Under the program for 1955, each farmer will sell his wool on the open market for the best price he can get.

At the end of the marketing year, the USDA will calculate the average price received by farmers for wool. If this average price is below 62 cents a pound, all producers together will be entitled to government payments to make up the difference between what they actually received and what they would have received if the price had averaged 62 cents a pound. This total amount will be divided among producers in proportion to the amount of money that each received from the sale of his wool.

For example, suppose the average market price that farmers receive for their 1955 wool clip is 53 cents a pound. This price is 9 cents short of the incentive level of 62 cents. This 9 cents figures out to be 17 percent of 53 cents, the average price actually received by farmers. So each farmer would be eligible for a government payment equal to 17 percent of the amount in dollars that he received for wool. Thus, if a farmer produces and sells $100 worth of wool, he would be eligible for an additional payment of 17 percent, or $17, from Uncle Sam. Another farmer who received, say $200 for his wool would also get 17 per cent, or $34, from the government, regardless of the amount of wool sold or the price per pound.

Payments will be made on any 1955 wool sold after April 1. The wool may be sold to a private dealer or through a cooperative association. The farmer should get and keep two copies of his sales account because he will need them when he makes application for his government payment. Government payments will be applied for by, and made to, the farmer. Applications for payments on 1955 wool should be made at the county ASC office as soon as possible after the wool is sold, but not later than April 1956. The rate of payments will be calculated, and payments will be made as soon as possible after that time, probably sometime during the summer of 1956.

The Living God

Lesson for January 9, 1955

FOR the next three months the Sunday school lessons will go into the great Christian doctrines. Christian churches are basically agreed about these doctrines. You can go into a church and hear a sermon about the Living God, or about the Holy Spirit, or about Christ, and hardly be able to tell what the denomination of the minister is, from the sermon. Various churches have written creeds, which are their official interpretation of Scripture. But since these lessons to come are concerned with the Bible rather than with formal creeds, this column will not set forth the special views, if any, of particular churches, but will rather try to point out some of the truths which we all hold in common, and which we derive from the revelation we find in the Scripture.

The Living God
The Bible nowhere tries to prove that God exists. If I were talking to you or writing you a letter I would not waste time trying to tell you that I am a real person. So the Word of God simply assumes that God IS. But that is not nearly enough for a vital faith. Suppose God just IS, like the law of gravitation or the binomial theorem in algebra—quite real but completely blind and uncaring? Suppose he just IS, like the other side of the moon, always there but never to be seen? Suppose God IS, like a block of granite which can be worked on but never does any work? No—by no means! The God of the Bible is the Living God, one who does things. Read for example the first book in the Bible, Genesis. Who is the principal character? Not Adam, not Noah, not Abraham or Joseph, but God. The story of the Bible is the story of the "mighty acts of God." Only the living God can help living men.

God Is Spirit
The Greek of John 4:24 can be translated just as correctly "God is Spirit" as "God is a Spirit," and scholars mostly believe the first translation better conveys the meaning. This does not mean you can turn the sentence around and say "Spirit is God." You are spirit, but you are not God. The great dividing line in existence is not between spirit and matter. It is between the one, the only, Creator-Spirit, God on the one side; and created-spirit and created-matter, on the other side. As Creator-Spirit, we can be sure of some facts about God. One is that he is not and does not have a physical body. If he had a body he would (like all bodies) have to be in only one place at one time. If he had a body he would be limited by his body as we all are. But being Spirit he can be, and is, everywhere. Because he is Spirit, Paul can say he is not far from each one of us . . . in him we live and move and are.

God Is Father
The Old Testament tells us much about God, but the New Testament tells us more. It is only rarely that God is called "Father" in the Old Testament, but in the New, we find Jesus using the word "Father" about God more than any other one word. There is a sense in which God is Father of all men—a more intimate sense in which God is Father of Christ and of Christians. Consider the words which would have been just as easy to use in beginning the Lord's Prayer: O creator . . . O Lord Most High . . . Almighty God . . . King of Kings . . . Judge of all the earth . . . But Jesus passes by all those and teaches us to say simply "Our Father" when we speak to the Almighty.

The Father and I Are One
Most important, most distinctively Christian, of all truths that we learn about God in the Bible, is summed up in Jesus' words: "The Father and I are one." The original Greek shows that Jesus did not mean to say he and his Father are one person, one individual, but he did mean to say that if we want to see God we must look into the face and into the mind and heart of Jesus. As Paul later said, we see the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. Christians who have given great thought to these things are agreed that any idea of God, any notion we may have about him, must be brought to the test of Jesus Christ. The least we can say is that God is Christ-like.
